Course Comments:
We covered a large amount of material clearly and thoroughly, and I feel like my understanding of economics has improved a great deal as a result. I can't think of any meaningful way to improve this course.
the problem sets were very helpful for tests.
The problem sets were extremely helpful for the tests. However, the data sections were painful and unnecessary.
The notes were clear and helpful. Reviewing the problem sets in class (at least the most difficult problems) would be a great aid to the class!
The course was extremely comprehensive, covering a lot of information in a short amount of time. The course could be improved by changing up the format, instead of having lectures every class. Maybe more group work or class discussion?
The assignments (PS) were very helpful in learning the material very well, as well as the class discussions relating it to real-world situations. An area of improvement could be the fluidity of the notes because if you missed one day it was difficult to understand some of the key points made due to fill in the blanks in the notes.
Mr Guarin did a very good job at helping students understand the material. His slides and notes were well laid out. The only improvement I would make would not have an 8 am class. Had it not been at 8 am I would have been a lot more focused and interested. His out of class reading In Fed We Trust was extremely relevant and useful.
It was a very informative course and I feel well-educated about economics in a general sense now. It was a good basis for future, more complex economics courses.
I would like more frequent, smaller assignments more frequently than larger, less frequent assignments.
I think it was great over all!
I really enjoyed the way the course was taught and the way the material was presented. I think some of the math could have been better explained.
He presents the ideas clearly and with a great touch of humor. Would take him again in a heartbeat. As for improvements, perhaps move a bit slower with some material.
Good use of graphs and real world examples!

Instructor Comments:
Well organized! Could improve clarity!
The instructor was readily available for help outside of class and communicated very well with students through social media/email. No improvements come to mind.
Professor Garin is an awesome professor! His passion for economics and his sense of humor kept the class interesting! He provided good examples to highlight difficult topics. He kept the dry lectures interesting with his examples and obvious excitement.
Pretty much everything was exemplary and I could not have asked for a better Econ instructor. Would take again anytime I could. Humor was a huge plus.
Overall great professor!
I thought Garín was an excellent, funny, and engaging professor. I can't really think of a way the instructor could improve.
I needed some of the basic information explained instead of being automatically assumed I knew. I'm still not completely sure what an asset or liability is.
I kind of talked about this in the last question not realizing this. He was always well prepared and one of the best teachers I've had. He was a very good symbol of how well taught honors classes are.
Humor spiced up the class and made it enjoyable!
He's a great teacher. Effective in scaring us to get our work done and done well, but it was worth all the hard work.
He was very informative, enthusiastic and was really good at making things more relatable for the students through examples. I enjoyed this class and would love to have the opportunity to take another class with the teacher.
He was great and knowledgeable and the exams were extremely fair.
He has done an excellent job. I really appreciate his ability to simplify and make enjoyable very complex and sometimes dull concepts.
Everything was done great
Dr. Garin's jokes and stories helped create a light atmosphere, but he never strayed too far off topic. This made the class pretty enjoyable. Honestly, I can't think of any obvious improvements that the instructor could make.
